

RIVIERA®

COLLECTION

In the 1920s, the Mediterranean coasts of France and Italy became forever synonymous with glamour, style, luxury and pleasure. A century later, the Riviera Collection by Burlington captures their unique spirit, and the extraordinary times that transformed them.

On the map, the Riviera is the stretch of sun-blessed coast between Marseilles and La Spezia. In our minds, though, it's a byword for glamorous, stylish living. Its famous resorts - Nice, St Tropez, Cannes, San Remo, Rapallo, Portofino - are the homes and holiday haunts of millionaires, champions and movie stars. It was here that the suntan first became fashionable, courtesy of Coco Chanel. And its heyday was the 1920's, usually described as "the golden years" that bequeathed us the timeless elegance of the Art Deco and Style Moderne movements, all perfectly captured in our Riviera Collection.

RIVIERA®

COLLECTION

The Riviera Collection by Burlington is inspired by the Art Deco and Style Moderne designs of the 1920s, which still grace luxury hotels, grand public buildings and private residences to this day.

After the hardship, drudgery and destruction of the Great War, the world was eager for comfort, excitement and change – and the 1920s delivered all three. Everyday life was transformed by a wave of energy, optimism and creativity, embracing everything from music and fashion to architecture and engineering. Suddenly, form was as important as function, and nothing embodied this philosophy more completely, effectively and beautifully than Art Deco and Style Moderne.

Both styles are characterised by clean lines and straight edges, corners are soft and rounded, creating a smooth, streamlined appearance

Designed by UK design group Christian Booth Design, the Riviera Collection is inspired by those classic principles, with forms, shapes and sizes subtly interpreted to make it suitable for period properties and contemporary settings alike.

Riviera in a traditional shower room

The 1920s was all about progress, innovation and a conscious break with the past. In the same spirit, Riviera is a modern interpretation of Art Deco's forms and principles, rather than a straightforward reproduction. Within the collection, you'll find everything you need to create a complete, unified look faithful to the original.

Riviera Showering

Although the 1920s were an era of rapid change and technological progress, some comforts we take for granted today were then only for a select few.

In the 1920s, showers were almost unknown in bathrooms, which were themselves far from commonplace beyond the confines of luxury hotels and wealthy homes. Happily, the Riviera Collection belongs firmly in the 21st Century, so includes a complete range of showering brassware, and make striking statements in walk-in settings.

The Riviera shower mixer (shown left) has two outlets feeding an elegant fixed showerhead and handspray, with thermostatic control valves ensuring accurate temperature control and fast, safe cut-off. The fixed showerhead has Airburst technology that gives you the frankly decadent sensation of showering in champagne bubbles, while also saving water. Form and function at its finest.

There are a wide choice of shower combinations using the thermostatic mixer, including bath filling, these can be selected to match your needs. To view the full range visit burlingtonbathrooms.com

Riviera in a contemporary setting

Like all truly great design, Art Deco has stood the test of time. Even today, it looks as striking and dynamic, yet refined and elegant, as it did in the 1920s. This timelessness means Riviera fits perfectly in both period and contemporary settings, with sizes and proportions specifically matched to modern tastes and requirements. It also blends seamlessly with traditional baths from the Burlington range and sleek modern designs from the Clearwater collection.

Riviera in a cloakroom

The cloakroom may not be the largest room in your home, but it's the one all your visitors are likely to see and make use of. The Riviera Collection's simple, uncluttered design and sensible range of sizes means it works beautifully at all scales, so even the smallest space can still be perfectly formed.

Riviera 450mm 2 tap hole cloakroom basin, Riviera pillar taps, plug and chain waste and bottle trap. Soap dish and Towel ring. Riviera back-to-wall WC with soft-close seat, concealed cistern including lever. WC roll holder. All fittings and accessories are Gold finish.

Riviera in a classic space

The Riviera Collection's Art Deco inspiration is clearly evident in the vanity unit, which combines clean geometric lines, soft colours and carefully considered practical details. Add in our elegant wall mounted brassware and you have an authentic yet contemporary piece that will look wonderful, and work perfectly, for years to come.

Riviera 650mm Square basin with 650mm Matt Blue vanity unit, wall mounted basin mixer and click-clack waste. Riviera back-to-wall WC with soft-close seat, concealed cistern including lever. Soap dish. All fittings and accessories are Chrome.

Riviera Brassware

Another defining feature of Art Deco design is that all necessary functional elements are either made beautiful to look at, or hidden away entirely. We've applied that thinking in Riviera by using innovative technology, the finest materials and manufacturing techniques.

As well as forms and shapes, the original Art Deco designers were captivated by materials. And while they themselves were predominantly artists producing individual items, they were also fascinated by the then-new phenomenon of mass production, and the simplicity, symmetry and uniformity of objects made by machines. So we're confident they would thoroughly approve of our Riviera brassware.

The tap bodies and spouts are perfectly cylindrical; the handles have small facets that add a subtle visual detail and make them pleasingly tactile. In all three and four hole basin and bath mixers, the valve mechanism is completely concealed, with the sleek, unadorned escutcheon giving a neat, precise fit. All Riviera Collection taps and mixers are available in Chrome or Gold finish.

Riviera in a family bathroom

Style Moderne design perfectly balances form and function. The Riviera Collection follows the same philosophy, with numerous small but beautifully thought-out details that enhance comfort and convenience. For example, a bath filler which allows the rim of the bath to remain uncluttered, and a bathscreen with an access panel that allows you turn on the shower and adjust the temperature, without getting wet.

Riviera 580mm D shape basin with full pedestal, 1 tap hole basin mixer and click-clack waste. Riviera close-coupled back-to-wall WC with soft-close seat. # Technical Directory

The following pages provide product specifications and information. For full technical details and dimensional drawings please refer to the White Book website bbwhitebook.com

Ceramic products PAGES 32-37

Riviera ceramics are handcrafted using refined clays from Devon and Cornwall. After glazing, they're kiln-fired at 1350°C, which transforms them into high-quality vitreous china that meets or exceeds all relevant UK and European standards. All Riviera ceramics are backed by our *lifetime guarantee** for your complete peace of mind.

Vanity units PAGES 34-35

Riviera vanity units are made from materials specially selected to withstand the rigours of life in the bathroom, where temperature and humidity can vary widely. Each part is coated with five layers of primer, before the final colour coating is applied; this top coat is UV-resistant to reduce the effects of exposure to bright sunlight. Riviera vanity units are supplied fully assembled for simple installation, with adjustable feet to ensure stability and protect them from wet floors. All Riviera furniture is *guaranteed for 10 years**.

Brass taps and mixers PAGES 38-41

Riviera brassware is made from pure brass ingots, which are cast and machined to precise standards, then finished in chromium-plate or PVD Gold. Normally used for fine jewellery, PVD Gold is highly durable and has excellent corrosion resistance. All Riviera taps and mixers are fitted with aerated flow spouts for a smooth 'champagne' flow that not only feels good but also saves water; flow is controlled by long-lasting ceramic disc quarter-turn cartridges. Riviera brassware is suitable for installation on high or low pressure water systems, and is supplied with a *15-year guarantee**.

Thermostatic showers PAGES 42-43

Riviera thermostatic shower mixers are brass castings with ceramic disc flow control and wax thermostatic cartridges for precise temperature control and fast shut-off in the event of cold water failure. The thermostatic mixers are approved by the Water Regulations Advisory Scheme (WRAS).

Accessories PAGES 44-45

To complement the Riviera Collection, we've created a comprehensive range of accessories, which offer elegant Art Deco-inspired design with practicality and longevity. View the full range of accessories online.

Wash basins

The Riviera Collection includes a choice of six different wash basins to suit all spaces and installation requirements.

D shape basins

The Riviera D shape wash basin has sweeping corners and an ergonomic design that is especially suitable for smaller spaces. Available in both 580mm and 650mm sizes, the full and semi pedestal models can also be wall mounted; the semi-inset model (580mm only) is designed to fit on a purpose-made countertop for a sleek fitted look. All wash basins have a choice of tapholes to suit the brassware selected.

Showering brassware

With single and dual-outlet control valves, together with a choice of fixed shower heads and hoses and handsprays, the Riviera showering brassware range includes everything you need for over-bath and walk-in installations.

The bathroom on page 22 shows the thermostat installed to control the flexible over-bath shower or to fill the bath. The thermostat is operated through an opening door in the glass screen that prevents you getting wet before your shower is ready and up to temperature.

Shower valve

The Riviera range includes the latest in thermostatic shower control for perfect operation and peace of mind. Ceramic discs control the flow whilst the temperature is managed by an advanced thermostat which monitors temperature and shuts down immediately in the event of hot or cold water failure. The handles and face plate match the Riviera brassware designs.

There are two models, a single outlet version, for showers with either a fixed overhead or a flexible hose and handspray or a two outlet version for two shower outlets or for one shower and bath filling. The two outlet valve can be installed with both a fixed and flexible shower, it has a built-in diverter to switch between the two. Both valves are WRAS approved

Bathrooms and Burlington

Burlington enables homeowners to create bathrooms with the classic forms and finishes from the past but made to modern quality and performance standards.

Today, we take internal plumbing and bathrooms for granted but until Victorian times, they were very much a novelty – and a luxury far beyond the reach of all but a favoured few. London finally acquired mains sewerage in 1866, but only after a series of public health scandals and an Act of Parliament; many houses didn't have piped water until the early 1900s.

Early bathrooms were fairly rudimentary affairs, with basins and toilets made from earthenware, baths in copper, tin or cast iron, and taps just simple brass castings. Then in the late Victorian period, improved plumbing and higher quality materials became available. During the Edwardian era, fitted indoor bathrooms began to appear in homes across the land, although it would be another 20 years or so before they became the rule, rather than the exception.

At the turn of the 20th Century, bathroom product design was still in its infancy, and form was still subservient to function. Shapes were square and geometric, with deep upstands on washbasins and large feet on pedestals. More rounded, opulent designs began to appear in the years immediately before the First World War, reflecting the art and architecture of that carefree, innocent time now known as la belle époque.

Burlington's designs have enabled homeowners to create bathrooms with the authentic outlines, forms and finishes of this pivotal period in history. The Victorian and Edwardian models faithfully capture the original designs in all their robust, timeless, seemingly everlasting glory. The Burlington Classic basin, for example, is a perfect reproduction of the 'Cliffe Vale' washbasin, originally produced in 1896. The Arcade collection recreates the more elegant, sophisticated designs that emerged during those peaceful, prosperous pre-First World War years.

In an age of minimalism and stark, functional spaces, Burlington offers a sanctuary for those who seek the comfort, familiarity and reassurance of more traditional styling. It's a great choice for renovation and replacement projects, and increasingly popular in new-build settings. As well as ceramic, baths and brassware, the range includes beautifully designed towel radiators, glass shower enclosures, accessories and furniture.

But bathroom design didn't stand still. After the privations of the Great War, the 1920s ushered in a dazzling new age of optimism, pleasure-seeking, luxury – even decadence – and style. In this giddy whirl of innovation, creativity and daring, much of our modern world was invented. And just as society was swept by new trends in everything from travel and fashion to music and dance, so architects and designers were captivated by the bold new forms of -Art Deco and Style Moderne.

Burlington reflects this evolution, and its inspiration, with the new Riviera Collection. With its precise, geometric forms and subtle linear detailing, Riviera beautifully captures the classic 1920s style.

Burlington brings the finest quality complete traditional bathroom ranges with genuine and inspired designs from the late 19th Century through to the 1930s.
